Quick Thinking Saves Life Of Sidney Electrician

Hank Stacey's presence of mind is responsible for his being alive today. Early this week, the Sidney Electrician proprietor was on Lulu Island driving along the New Westminster Road when his car struck a bridge and toppled into a deep irrigation canal.

As soon as he saw the accident was going to take place, Stacey opened his car door and as the vehicle lay on its top under water he came out through the opening. "I had been over to fix a range for my mother," he told The Review. "I was calmly driving along when I noticed an approaching car. I attempted to slow down but nothing happened. Then I attempted to turn but all that occurred was my wheels kept slipping on the greasy road. "I struck the bridge and travelled along it for a short distance. Then the car toppled over and landed upside down in the water. "As I felt it going I opened the door about a foot and managed to scramble out and swim ashore where another motorist helped me up onto the bank."

Stacey's car, with the top smashed in and the body still full of muddy slime is at the Imperial Garage.

TO INVITE CONVENTION TO SIDNEY

An invitation will be extended by the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce for the 1950 Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island convention to be held in Sidney.

In proposing the idea Cmdr. Leigh stated that accommodation for the anticipated 60 or 70 delegates could be found. If accepted, the convention will be held on the third Wednesday of next June.

PETER FINDS A BRACELET, WHOSE?

Peter Spears, who lives on First Street, isn't very old, but he has keen, quick eyes. He found a bracelet last week, and with the impetuosity of youth wants to know whose it is. The mysteries of a classified advt. are not yet unraveled for him, all he wants to know is whose bracelet he found. It's a metal bracelet with Indian emblems on it and the name "Doris" is scratched on the inside.

Sidney Tourist Group To Produce Car Sticker

An automobile windshield sticker is now being planned by the Tourist committee of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce.

Wordings will contain the slogan "Where Sea and Sunshine Meet" and the sticker will have as its main theme the Dogwood flower. Floral design will be in green and the wording black. The stickers will be available in approximately two weeks.

SAME OLD STORY SIDNEY GIRLS WIN

Sidney's Girls' Softball team ran true to form again this week by keeping their unbeaten record intact in games with the Moose and Toppers.

On Friday Sidney walloped the Moose 16 to 5 with Sheila English starring by knocking out a home-run in the first inning and crossing the plate four times out of five times at bat.

In the game against Toppers Sidney came out on the long end of a 5 to 2 score. The local girls scored in the first, third, fifth and seventh innings, while Toppers chalked up both their runs in the fifth.

Heated Verbal Exchange Features Saanich Meeting

Little headway was made on Tuesday night at a special meeting between the Saanich Council and members of Ward 6 Ratepayers when the council left the chambers.

The action came after a heated exchange of words between Sydney Pickles, president of the Ward 6 group, and Reeve E. C. Warren. The Reeve asked Mr. Pickles to table a report which Mr. Pickles insisted should be read.

"I'm the chairman of this meeting, Mr. Pickles," said the Reeve. "You may be the chairman, but you don't know how to conduct the business. You are dictating," replied Mr. Pickles.

The Reeve then asked Mr. Pickles to sit down. Mr. Pickles insisted that the report be read, especially, as he claimed it was asked for at the last council meeting.

"Kindly take your seat, sir," said the Reeve.

Again Pickles replied that he was not leaving. "We came here to present this written report. We're not leaving until we do so," said Mr. Pickles.

It was then that Councillor Passmore moved adjournment of the meeting and the council filed out.

In a statement made this afternoon (Wednesday) Mr. Pickles had the following to say:

"Whilst Reeve Warren was probably within his technical rights in refusing to allow me to address the council meeting last night, it was highly discriminatory of him, after he had permitted some ratepayers to address the meeting. He dictatorially refused to allow me, as president of Ward 6 Saanich Ratepayers' Association, supported by a large delegation, to present our written report on Fire Protection which we had prepared at the Reeve's request. "It must be borne in mind that this meeting was called for the sole purpose of discussing fire protection. The Reeve did not even refer the matter to the Councillors. "It looks like a technical move by him to stifle the introduction and discussion of an unwelcome report. We were deeply disappointed... even amazed. It was interesting to see how far the Reeve would go when I continued to protest after he had ordered me to sit down. He reached the stage of angrily threatening to have me forcibly removed from the council chamber by the Saanich police. At this stage the councillors showed better judgment in quickly adjourning the meeting and thereby protecting the ratee Reeve from carrying out his threat.

"Members of the delegation were amazed at the reception we received, many expressed misgivings about the administration. We are now pressing for a further council meeting to be called as soon as possible in order to continue the open investigation of the fire protection for Saanich residents, particularly in Ward 6. "This is a serious public matter requiring immediate attention. "After last evening's performance in the Saanich Council Chamber it will not be difficult for the public to understand why we are demanding that an impartial investigating committee be appointed."

Lad Narrowly Escapes Injury

Joseph Lane, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lane, narrowly escaped serious injury on Wednesday afternoon when he climbed a tree and held an electric power line.

Hearing screams the boy's mother rushed to the scene, at the corner of Marine Drive and Amelia Ave. and started to climb the tree to help her son. As the boy cried for help Mrs. Lane shook the tree and the lad plummeted through the branches to the ground.

Rev. E. S. Fleming and neighbours, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, came to assist. The boy landed on his feet and suffered no serious injury.

Dr. Roberts attended and rendered aid for slight burns, bruises and shock.

SIDNEY POLICE WITH WARDEN BAG COUGAR

Quick action tonight (Wednesday) on the part of Game Warden J. W. Jones saw a cougar destroyed at Ardmore.

Upon receipt of a telephone call from Brig. P. Earnshaw, at his home "The Cedars," Bayview Rd., which told of a cougar being sighted on his lawn, Constable D. Allen immediately raced to Game Warden Jones and they returned with dogs. Constable J. Gibault accompanied the party to the home of Brig. Earnshaw and the cougar was found and shot.

The animal is now on display next to the Tourist Bureau on Beacon Avenue.

Pearkes, 17,982; Strachan, 9,750; Bourque, 9,402.

There were 50,600 voters on the lists, eligible to vote. A total of 37,134 votes were cast, 73 1/2 per cent.

JUNIOR ORCHESTRA SHOW TALENT IN PRESENTATION

First semi-public appearance of the newly-formed Sidney Junior Orchestra took place last week when 14 of the youthful musicians played several waltzes at the Saturday night dance in the K.P. Hall.

Under the leadership of Stan Magee, the group was well received in its first public performance. It is usual for a novelty number to be introduced at the dances, the juniors filled this spot on Saturday. The orchestra now has a strength of 28, not all are equipped with instruments, but many double on existing instruments.

Al. Turner assists in the teaching of violin and Al. Jones instructs in trombone and horn. The full band will take part in the Sidney Day festivities on July 13.

Joint Tourist Groups Publish District Folder

The joint tourist committees of the Saanich and Sidney and North Saanich Chambers of Commerce last week published an attractive folder descriptive of the Saanich Peninsula. Printed on yellow stock, the folder is in two colors, black and green.

The front indicates a glimpse of the whole peninsula and is titled "The Saanich Peninsula, Vancouver Island, The Garden of Canada." Descriptive "copy" tells of the district, climate, services and flora. The whole centre spread is a map of the peninsula with roads well marked. Numbers indicate places of interest and the whole is so arranged that different descriptive material may be changed from year to year.

The folder was produced by residents of Saanich and North Saanich, through their respective Chambers of Commerce.

Distribution is now under way and meetings are planned between the two tourist groups to see that "overlapping" does not occur.

Chamber Approves Half Holiday For Post Office Staff

Following correspondence with Vancouver postal authorities which explained the general acceptance of a weekly half-day closing of the wickets at post offices, approval by the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce was given closing of the wickets at the Sidney Post Office on Monday afternoons providing the rural mail is delivered "as usual."

The meeting was held at Shoreacres Hotel on Tuesday evening.

A letter from Department of Transport to the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce explained that to change the name of the Airport here from Patricia Bay to Sidney, as suggested by the Tourist committee, would be confusing.

The department pointed out that on the opposite extreme shore of Canada was Sydney, Nova Scotia, where another trans-oceanic airport was placed. To have the two airports with the same name might be confusing. A suggestion from F. Ford that the Sydney, Nova Scotia port be changed received small support, it was suspected that the spokesman for the Tourist committee had his tongue in his cheek.

New British House Of Commons Using Materials From All Parts

The rebuilding of the United Kingdom House of Commons, destroyed by German bombs on May 10, 1941, proceeds steadily throughout session and recess and is so well forward that Commons members of the new Parliament in the autumn of next year will be able to meet in the completed Chamber.

This is the opinion of Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, architect of the new Commons, who has just described the work as "progressing satisfactorily." Work began in May, 1947, and the foundation stone was laid last May.

A start on the interior of the Chamber will probably be made next month. The wood-carving is well ahead, says Sir Giles, and in other respects the work is up to schedule. The contract for the shell of the building is due for completion next March.

From many corners of the Commonwealth has been sent, or is being sent, some valued product to be moulded into the new Chamber's fabric or furnishing.

Britain herself supplies the stone-fine yellowish limestone from Clipsham and Hollywell in Rutland, her smallest county, and Portland stone from Dorset. As raw material 115,000 cubic feet of Clipsham stone will be used for the main fabric and 50,000 cubic feet of Portland stone for the rebuilding of the cloisters.

The dressing and carving of the stone is in the hands of skilled masons, two of whom, in their late seventies, have given a lifetime to their craft. The archway from the Chamber to the Lobby named "The Churchill Arch" in honour of the wartime leader of Parliament—is built partly of new stone and partly of stone from the bombed Commons.

tee and for two Clerks of the House. Four tables and chairs in the division lobbies are being made from specially chosen Nigerian timber.

The Colonial Secretary will dip his pen into a massive inkpot made from 30 ounces of silver sent by Fiji in far Oceania. British Guiana has sent cigarette boxes and ashtrays made of bauxite, oxidized in an old gold colour. This has added Commonwealth significance in that British Guiana exports much bauxite to Canada for the aluminum industry.

Practical gifts which will be constantly within the sight of Members, should any debate prove tedious, are two small wall clocks from Northern Ireland, built to the design of Sir Giles. Mr. Speaker recently accepted these on behalf of the House, and also a small timing clock for the Clerk's table, the latter specially designed to mark off the different periods of Parliamentary divisions.

"Almost a replica of the old" is how Sir Giles describes the rising Chamber. A useful difference, however, will be the enlarged galleries at the north and south ends.

G. German Tells Of Banking Methods And Costs

Giving his classification talk to the Sidney Rotary Club, on Wednesday, Gordon German, manager of the Sidney branch of the Bank of Montreal, told of the costs involved in modern banking.

Mr. German told of the commencement of his banking career in Weyburn, Sask., in 1922, when he became a member of the staff of the Home Bank. He served with several branches of the bank and was in Cabri, Sask., when the bank failed.

In 1924 he travelled to the West coast to Vancouver Island to join the staff of the Bank of Montreal, he has served in 18 branches in British Columbia and has had 26 transfers. The speaker told of the various services made possible by the bank for its employees, group sickness and accident insurance, bonus systems and pension funds.

Touching on problems, Mr. German told of the lack of trained staff which was attributed to the war. A five to six year lag was shown and the tendency today was for more women to work in banks.

Mr. German emphasized that the modern bank was a private enterprise whose main revenue was derived from loaning funds on deposit. Costs have increased 100.9 per cent since 1939. Taxes have risen 103.3 per cent. Total operating expenses are up 69.5 per cent and total gross revenue up 69.3 per cent.

Dividends are also up 4.4 per cent. A recent cost analysis shows the cost for making an entry for a current account is 6 cents. To handle currency the modern bank finds that it now costs 60 cents per $1,000. Services on other banks, such as cheques cost the

Television Ancient History According To Sidney Man

Just in case anyone thinks television is something new Jack Sims of Sidney Electric is willing to prove them wrong. According to Jack, a scanning disc, invented by a German scientist in 1884 made possible the sending of images and images were transmitted short distances.

Prior to that, in 1873, the finding of light sensitive material, selenium opened the door to television.

Sims is of the firm opinion that North Saanich is a good area for television reception and points out that this is made possible by the fact that transmission, which at present is coming from the United States, comes over water.

Dealing with the question so often asked, "Which is the better, English or American television?" The radio man said, "English television operates on 440 lines to the screen and American 525 and as a general rule the more lines in transmission and reception the clearer the image.

"On the other hand the English send on a wider band which makes for the building of cheaper sets and in some measure makes up for the difference in lines."

On the same band that a television station sends in the United States there is room for 600 broadcast stations.

Sims expects the coaxial cable to reach Seattle in the not too distant future and points out this will mean a decided improvement in both quantity and quality of television broadcasts received here. Dealing with Canada broadcasting television programs he believes the American and not the British system will be used enabling set owners to pick up both Canadian and American broadcasts.

During the past few weeks Sims

WHOEVER comes out victorious in the battle of the Fire Brigade, between Saanich Municipal Council and the Ratepayers' Association of Ward Six, the boys of the Sidney Volunteer Fire Brigade are the real winners.

Sidney's Chief Art Gardner and the men under him are getting public recognition for doing a needed job in a workmanlike and public spirited manner. They can well be proud, but the businessmen and residents of North Saanich who support that brigade may also share in its pride.

The manner in which the men of the Sidney Brigade give up their time and often risk injury or death in a willingness to serve their fellow men is a shining example of true community spirit.

Theirs is the outlook towards life which makes an area a happy place in which to dwell.

Buildings and industries, entertainment and bright lights play a part in the life of any community but real living begins when men and women stand shoulder to shoulder fighting adversity—not when they stand toe to toe fighting each other.

In many ways the Fire Brigade typifies the people of Sidney and the surrounding area. We have our "characters" and our "eccentrics" but by and large we are a friendly people willing to help the other fellow and give him a chance.

North Saanich has a long way to go before it reaches the spot where it can be held up as a shining example to the whole world of the perfect community, but much has been accomplished here in the past few years. What has been done has been done by the people themselves working together. Not always agreeing—but always striving.

Perhaps there is no better cross section of the community than the volunteers who belong to the Sidney Fire Brigade. They represent different religions, different lands of birth and different trades and walks of life.

They have two things in common. The ability to work together and a willingness to serve their community. Let all men possess these characteristics and not only will an area progress but a contented, proud and happy people are a foregone conclusion.

A FIGHTING HEART

THE victory of George Randolph Pearkes in the Federal election of last Monday will be welcomed not only by the large majority who voted for him, but with pleasure by many who did not.

Maj.-Gen. Pearkes has that happy knack of "getting along" with people. It will serve this constituency well in Canada's parliament. It is one reason why many who, through strong affiliations with other parties, did not vote for the Progressive Conservative cause, will welcome his victory.

They know that regardless of party affiliations, any good constructive suggestion for the district will be ably expressed in parliament by Gen. Pearkes.

A fighting soldier at heart, General Pearkes served in both world wars and won his Victoria Cross in the first world war. His last appointment prior to retirement was General Officer Commanding in Chief of the Pacific Command, with the rank of Major-General.

The call to political life came when the 1945 Federal election campaign was underway. He won that election.

It is comforting to know that the district is represented by so capable an officer. It is also a well-known fact that just any ordinary suggestion for the spending of public funds will not be endorsed by our representative. A project must be worthwhile, of proven benefit to the community and the nation before action will be taken by Gen. Pearkes ... and rightly so.

The contest is over. It was a clean, spirited campaign and no regrets as to its outcome are in evidence from Sidney, North Saanich or the Gulf Islands.

OUT OF THE MIST

By KIPPER.

The last time the subject of television was discussed here we were full of sorrow ... the business was complicated and the wires didn't fit and the sound came but the fury did not follow. In other words the noises were audible but the picture quite lacking.

All is now changed. That is to say, the whole business is still as complicated as ever to your layman ... but by golly, the picture shows!

Your Kipper has just returned from the comfortable home of Jack Sims where he, with bulging eyes, has watched a complete television show. Jack, of course, full of knowledge, is an old hand with electronics ... his radio, for instance, has a gadget which turns on the household's favorite programs automatically! "Oh, Jack made that long ago," says his admiring wife.

To go into the wartime background of Mr. Sims would take a long time. He did, of course, invent an electronic method of training pilots ... it was all done with lights and electrical gadgets. We gather that our Mr. Sims was a most valuable man in the air force, and rightly so. Electricity may be an open book for the youth of today but your Kipper is an old dotard of yesterday who gets goose pimples when he has to pull an ordinary open household switch.

Thus, television is here! But keep it dark ... once you have a set you'll find the neighbors "dropping" in, not for a moment or two but for hours and hours ... it's awful hard to leave in the middle of a program.

To the anonymous lady who wrote concerning our quote on ladies' trousers, let us forget the whole bulging subject, shall we?

We'll admit that they are comfortable, cheap and a time-saver; and as our correspondent pointed out, there is no room for lead in them. We agree wholeheartedly, that women are going forward, and have no time to look behind ... agreed ... agreed.

HARBOUR LIGHTS

By HELMSMAN

I.P.B.'s new set of charts of British Columbia waters set a new high. First possessor on the Island of a set is Commodore Henshall of the Capital City Club. The new charts, in book form, have almost every course a man can think of marked off showing compass readings in both directions. The book also has the most complete listing of harbours and supply points we have seen to date.

Boatmen have been beating a path to Shoal Harbour Marina this week after compasses. Ann Moran has had some special bargains in luminous set compasses which take a lot of the headache out of night sailing.

Jim Harris, his wife and daughter, all of the Queen City Yacht Club of Seattle have made Shoal Harbour Marina their base for the past week as they fished and cruised in Island waters.

Harris made his first trip to Victoria in a 24-foot craft. He was heading for the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at Cadboro Bay, but missed it, wound up at Shoal Harbour and left a bit early.

Hutchinson's "J.H. and E." ran into a little trouble Saturday. His motor started acting up off Sidney Spit. By coaxing, praying and cursing he got his craft into James Island. He was forced to spend the night there and then was brought back to Shoal Harbour Marina where a check-up is being made.

We've made a check on a number of American boats coming into these waters lately for repairs and find the reason they do it is because Canadian prices are cheaper and the boat owner doesn't feel he is being ripped for work which is not done. It's a good reputation for mar-

SIDNEY WOMAN HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Allen McD. Munsell, Queens Avenue, was involved in a car crash on the East Saanich Road near Claremont Road, Thursday, and suffered shoulder injuries.

She was in a car driven by her husband when, according to police, it seemed to go out of control and skid for 72 feet before striking a pole and breaking a power line.

The car then bounced back onto the road.

King Opens Colonial Month Amid African Pageantry

The King in a broadcast from the Colonial Office in London on June 21 inaugurated Colonial Month in Britain.

A series of exhibitions and displays by public bodies interested in the Colonies and by large London stores and business houses form the main part of the general campaign to arouse greater interest in Britain in the Colonial territories and their peoples.

The King and Queen were received at the Colonial Office by Mr. Creech-Jones, secretary of state for the Colonies, and Sir Thomas Lloyd, permanent under-secretary of the Colonial Office. The guard of honour consisted of 12 members of the Gold Coast Governor's Bodyguard. They were dressed in traditional uniform — green frock coats, red cummerbunds and brown breeches — and carried pikes flying miniature pennants of the Colonies.

The King, whose speech was broadcast, said: "Today is the month in which we hope to link together in closer fellowship than ever before the peoples of the British Colonies, Protectorates and Trust Territories, and the people of Britain herself and more particularly the citizens of London. I am glad that this is being done. It fills us with a deep sense of thankfulness that we are free to meet and plan together for the making of a world that will be closer to our heart's desire."

The King recalled that less than four years ago the world was absorbed in a devastating war which threatened our existence and had we failed in that war "Many of my peoples would now be subject to a very different type of rule and no such gathering as this could have taken place."

"My first thought," he continued, "is once again to thank and praise all the peoples who are represented here today for the loyalty with which they supported my arms and for the splendid contribution which they made towards victory. They did well for the Commonwealth and for themselves, since the boundless opportunities which are open to them in partnership with us can only be fully realized in a freedom-loving world. These opportunities are manifold — to enlarge our wealth by increase from the soil and by the wise use of all its varied possibilities: to raise the standard of life for all peoples by means of expanding revenue which only economic development can produce; to spread health, education and new vigour among peoples who have hitherto had little of these advantages, and above all to promote higher ideals and to strengthen the trust and comradeship between races upon which the peace and welfare of mankind depend as they never depended before. If we are to make full use of these possibilities we must remember to whom they are due — to the generations of men and women of many different races who have laboured devotedly to weld the framework of our commonwealth. Some of them are famous, others have left no name; but to their faith and work we owe the example and promise which the Commonwealth presents at the present time."

The King paid tribute to the work of the Colonial Service and bade them "Go forward with confidence and courage in their high endeavour."

He hoped the sums of money voted by Parliament to help the Colonial Government carry out their plans would enable the Colonial peoples in partnership with the United Kingdom to reach their common goal in the development days counting each, till we leave again ... for Qualicum Beach. I can hardly wait ... & with every gland, I can feel my feet upon that sand. And see myself, so bold and rash, into the sea ... a manly dash ... the water bite my chest ... fighting air ... I'm hard-pressed. I'll thrash about ... the water mail, my special version ... of the crawl. Then seal about, wave my hand, & join the others ... on the sand. They'll be standing, & fussing there, adjusting caps ... & tucking hair. A little self-conscious the G.F. will be, in her new 2-pc. job ... there by the sea. I'll look her over, a husbandly gaze, why even a wife ... can have a keen shape. I'll be surprised ... just as I was, when once I saw her ... hanging gauze. She'd reached above for a curtain pole, a glance at her ... I had stole. And realized then, ... 'twas beyond her reach, the same pretty legs ... now on this beach. I might mention this, or so be led, that long low whistle ... outa my head. "Oh ... don't be silly," I can hear her drool, "help Trude with her cap ... don't be a fool." "You're pulling too tight," Trude will frow, "my blue water-wings can I get them wet?" We'll all join hands ... our eldest too, then a family sprint ... into the blue. But ONLY THREE ... will feel that glow, the G.F. will stop ... & dip her big toe. "C'mon Mummy" ... the dotters will boast, "IT REALLY IS ... as warm as toast." Finally we'll group upon the sand, I'll scoop out castles ... with each hand. And all around we'll build a moat, while the G.F. smears ... her arms & throat. The tide comes in ... our moat to fill, we'll dash for our cottage ... high on the hill. "Better chop some wood," she will bleat, "I'll fix the salad ... & the meat." I'll grab the axe, & take a swat, Boy-Oh-Boy ... what strength I've got. "Oh ... this is the life ... fun and toil, wonder WHY we sell ranges ... equipped with oil. Still WHY do people ... pay this tax ... when it's such fun ... wielding an axe? But these QUAKER ranges ... we know that you'll save 25% on your fuel. We shake off these thots ... with a shrug, it's no place ... we know ... to work in a plug. Whack again ... it's fouled a mile, then I whittle up ... a sizeable pile. On the porch the table is set, the suits on the tree ... still dripping wet. We all sit down ... rest from our labors, to look about ... & size up the neighbors. After the dishes ... in sunbusts gay, the girls will join ... & play croquet. I'll lay in a chair ... with a canvas spine, & think some thots, I can't define. Away over there ... I'll hear the clink of pitching horseshoes ... hear them sink. Childhood laughter ... there on the lawn, the "shape" sits beside ... and we gaze upon. The twilight mountains, it's away past ten, what a relief to relax ... no need for a pen. No need this time ... to wrestle an Ad, and Oh, Brother ... am I glad. Yes ... as I sed ... it won't be long now, to chopping wood ... and outdoor chow. Days to remember in the years to come, fourteen days ... their total sum. To all my readers ... a post card dear, "Having such fun ... WISH YOU WERE HERE."

EVEN A WIFE ... CAN HAVE A KEEN SHAPE

LOCAL WEAVERS TO SHOW IN CITY EXHIBITION

All hand-weavers and those who enjoy seeing beautiful handicrafts are looking forward to the annual exhibition of hand-weaving to be held at the Empress Hotel, Victoria, July 7, 8 and 9 next by the Victoria Hand Weavers Guild.

The steadily growing membership of this handicraft guild, which is one of the oldest in Canada, shows the increasing interest that is being taken in this the oldest of handicrafts.

As well as showing their own work, there will be a large and varied display from weavers' guilds in every province in Canada including Newfoundland and also a special exhibit from California of a large number of table mats each one showing a different technique of weaving.

There will also be demonstrations of weaving on four different types of hand looms and card weaving and spinning of both wool and flax.

The general convener of this exhibition is Mrs. Ethel Hammond.

Two very active members of the Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild formerly lived on Salt Spring Island, Mrs. A. J. Shipley and Mrs. Earle D. Spicer.

Other members include Mrs. E. S. Coleman and Mrs. R. S. Johnson, of Sidney. Mrs. E. Smith and Miss Esther Smith, of West Saanich Rd., Brentwood, also Miss Joan Pickles and Mrs. Sydney Pickles, of Saanichton. Mrs. Pickles is president of the guild this year.

The exhibition will be officially opened by the hon. president, Mrs. Nancy Hodges, M.L.A., at 2.30 p.m. Thursday, July 7, and will be on view to the public for three days from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

THAT'S REALLY DRY!

Harry Baade, of Stellies Cross Road, informed The Review this week that information he has received from friends in Saskatchewan shows the season to be so dry that even in the frog farm areas frog growers are having to teach the young to swim in the kitchen sinks.

High School Drama Students

The four players shown above, in a scene from "Mr. Sampson," received high honour in the School Drama Festival this year. The North Saanich High School entry was named one of the three honour plays of the festival. Players are: (right to left) June Hedblom, Miss K. Baker, Bill Wolf and Ardis Nelson. June Hedblom was named runner-up in the individual acting awards. Bill Wolf received second place honours.

A TREE FALLS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

... at the same moment a citizen of Los Angeles reads his newspaper.

Canada supplies three of every five pages of the world's newspapers. Quite likely our American friend's daily paper recently formed part of a tree in a British Columbia Forest. Newspaper is manufactured from trees and over 350,000 tons of it are produced annually in B.C.

Other products include dissolving pulps for the manufacture of rayon, bleached and unbleached sulphite and sulphate pulps as well as scores of different pulpboard, paper and paperboard products. Most of these pulp and paper products are exported, resulting in a return to this province of approximately 50 million dollars annually in needed Foreign Exchange. This million dollar benefits every citizen through increased employment, a stimulation of business in all industries and expansion of trade generally.

The Wise Gardener

Notes From Saanichton Experimental Station

Most American grape varieties are not seriously affected with mildew and for this reason require no treatment. Hybrid and European varieties such as Pearl of Csaba and Seneca require dusting with a finely divided fungicide such as sulfur for mildew control. It has been found that a dusting just as the plants are in flower and another about three weeks later gives good control. This means that the first dusting with sulphur should be made at once and at a time when the foliage is damp.

Most grape vines produce an excessive number of new shoots each spring. Some thinning of these should be done while the shoots are a few inches in length by rubbing off with thumb and finger. This is a simple process and no harm is done to the plant. Plants are best planted not closer than ten feet apart and trained to four arms.

ENGLISH PEAS

Many gardeners in this district have been using fresh green peas from their own garden for several weeks, and at a time when the price is high and the supply is scant the advantage of having some of your own at very little cost of time and effort is self evident, to say the least. The earliest green peas this season in station plots were ready on May 27. This was an English variety similar to the small seeded, small podded variety Alaska. Its earliness seemed to be about its only advantage and most gardeners would probably be willing to wait a few days for the larger podded varieties such as Laxton's Superb. Because of its hardiness, this variety is at present the standard sort used for extra early green peas. Sown in the latter part of October, it will survive a considerable amount of frost, and given a well drained, protected spot in the garden will come through successfully often enough to make it an attractive proposition for many garden enthusiasts.

IXIAS GOOD HERE

Did you know that Ixias, those showy little South African flowers of the Iris family are fairly well adapted to conditions on the Saanich Peninsula? They do very well in California and while they may not succeed so well here at least we can enjoy them without the protection required in certain latitudes of the northern states where they are sometimes grown. At any rate, three years trial here indicates that they are pretty much at home. Right now (June 22) the many colored forms are at the peak of their bloom. The season lasts about two or three weeks. As a cut flower they are very desirable, being colorful and long lasting, with stiff stems. The bulbs, which are quite small, are planted in September and October and covered to a depth of about three inches. Varieties found most successful so far are Crateroides major, White Swan, Azurea and King of the Yellows.

HANDLING WASTE

The most important waste product on the poultry farm is the manure. The problem of handling poultry manure, however is a difficult one. On standing, the product tends to lose much of its value. It gives off disagreeable odors, it attracts flies and rodents, and is a potential source of disease. Untreated poultry manure loses a large percentage of nitrogen as ammonia especially in warm weather. Superphosphate is an effective agent in preventing the loss of nitrogen from poultry manure. Its rate of application should be at least 5 lbs. per 100 lbs. of fresh manure. Manure can be preserved by artificial drying but this causes a loss of nitrogen no matter whether the manure has been treated with preservatives or not. Hydrated lime is

IN THIS CORNER

The trouble with the world today is that too many people listen to too many people who have too much to say. If you don't believe this just check through all the people in the public eye who are making statements about the atomic bomb and who not only never saw one but whose basic idea of its construction is about as scientifically sound as the application of cob-webs to cure cuts.

There's a lot to be said for the old Indian who was discovered in the bush by two hunters. Asked if he was lost he replied, "No. Indian no lost. Indian here. Wig-wam lost."

From where we sit it appears as though we have a habit of letting the things we have invented run us instead of us running our inventions.

Perhaps the whole thing can be traced to the invention of paper and the printing press. Back in the old days, when man's chief weapon was a rock thonged onto a stick, a man wanting to record anything sat down with a soft stone slab, a hammer and a stone chisel and went to work labouriously carving out his message to posterity. A scribe thought more than once before he went to work then.

Nowadays things are so simple that if a leader hasn't got something to say every hour of the day he soon drops out of public sight and the scribes are tagging along behind a new hero who makes copy whether he knows what he is talking about or not. We read what the Great Man has said and take it as authority, never bothering to find out for ourselves — finding it so much simpler not to do our own thinking.

Perhaps we would all be a lot happier if we spent more time remembering that nine times out of ten a so-called authority is a very ordinary man in his home town, a long way away from his home town.

Huge Trans-Canada North Star Will Be Air Circus Feature

The first official visit of Trans-Canada Airlines new Canadian-built four-engine North Star to Patricia Bay will take place July 1. The trip is being planned to coincide with the air circus.
The craft, which accommodates 40 passengers and a crew of six is scheduled to land near the middle of the show and will land and be thrown open to the public.
As an added attraction a 30-minute courtesy flight for lucky program holders will be made over the city.

Plans for the air circus are now complete and the feature event of the show will be a precision acrobatics display by the famous American stunt flyer, "Swede" Ralston.

This year, the 31-year-old pilot from Hillsboro, Ore., will bring six more flying acts to insure a full program for the spectators.

Included in the show will be a typical "Great War aerial dog-fight." Ralston and Dick Martin, his wing-mate, will try and out-manoeuvre each other in two AT-6's—the American equivalent of a Harvard. They will criss-cross the sky with a smoke pattern which will enable the crowd to follow the manoeuvres.

Harold Seely, another American flyer, will show just how simple it is to fly the modern conventional type aircraft. He is a double amputee.

Special arrangements have been made with Saanich and Provincial Police to handle the heavy traffic that is expected on the East and West Saanich Roads on July 1.

Mulches For Bulbs Successful In B.C. Claims Expert

The value of mulch material in relatively inert forms such as waste hay, chopped straw, etc., on bulb plantings has been receiving attention for several years, says J. H. Crossley, assistant in charge of bulb experimental work at the Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton.

Four years' results to date with mulches on tulips—the test crop—indicate they have certain specific value for conditions prevailing along the coastal area of British Columbia. Commercially, however, their value is still speculative as they have not been used extensively. Experimental data show a 6 per cent increase in weight in the marketable portion of the tulip bulb crop, and 2 per cent in the total bulb crop on the average. But it is considered that any general use of added mulch for bulbs will be governed by the availability, the cost of the material and application, as well as other important considerations such as the increased difficulty in weed control and harvesting operations. Based on these considerations and results, which also show an increase of 21 per cent in top grade of flowers in two years out of four but a decrease of one per cent on the average, it is concluded that mulches, in general, have restricted use for annual bulb crops such as tulips. Bulbs other than tulips, some lilies for example, which do not require to be lifted annually in order to obtain maximum crop increases and to control disease, may be found to benefit more fully from mulches than do tulips.

Other points revealed by these tests are that the bulb and flower crop benefited most in light and improved soils. Also, that there was no anticipated reduction in packing of heavy, clay type soils due to winter rains as judged by digging and harvesting operations in July. It was also revealed that mulches satisfactorily check soil erosion, a point not fully appreciated or answered as yet for large plantings where the system of culture usually demands 3-foot ridged rows for machine operation and drainage.

Mulches are most satisfactory in the case of small plantings where, for instance, highly valuable stock is being grown and where cost considerations can be lightly considered or offset by revenue.

MAKING COINS

The Royal Mint in Britain is making 100,000 sovereigns which will never be used as money. They will remain as part of the nation's gold reserve and will not be issued to the public. These gold coins are being struck for a very special purpose, to preserve the inherited knowledge and craftsmanship in making gold coins. The craft of gold coining requires a different technique from that used for other metals.

The Spotlight On Strawberries

Discussion of strawberries for July menus seems to be quite superfluous to most people. Who wants anything better than ripe, red strawberries and cream or old time strawberry short-cake?

Certainly the dessert problem is solved for a while as homemakers serve fresh berries at every opportunity so long as the season lasts.

They have, however, the task of extending the berry season into the winter months by preserving them in various ways. Because of the juiciness and soft texture of strawberries they collapse and lose colour unless good methods are used, also because most people prefer rather sweet fruit the berries often rise to the top of the sealer, making the finished product rather unattractive.

In Canada's kitchen, the home economists of the Department of Agriculture, have been trying for years to find a method that is completely satisfactory. Now they think they have found it. The secret is in letting the berries stand in the hot syrup until they plump up. This also helps to set the colour.

There are two methods, hot pack and cold pack.
1—Cold Pack — Wash, hull. Bring to boil slowly in syrup. Cover, remove from heat and let stand from 1 to 3 hours. Pack in sealers, leaving 1/2-inch headspace.

Partially seal and process small (pint) sealers, 15 minutes in boiling water or 20 minutes in the oven, at 275°F. Process medium (quart) sealers 15 minutes in boiling water bath or in oven at 275°F., for 25 minutes.

2—Hot Pack—Wash, hull. Bring syrup to boil and add strawberries. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 1 to 3 hours. Bring to boil and pack hot, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Partially seal sealers or completely seal tin cans. Process small (pint) or medium (quart) sealers, 10 minutes in boiling water bath or 20 minutes in the oven at 275°F.

Tin cans must never be processed in the oven but both 20-oz. and 28-oz. cans should be processed for 10 minutes in the boiling water bath.

Every homemaker hopes to make strawberry jam of good colour and with whole berries held together by a luscious jelly. Here is a good recipe.

STRAWBERRY JAM

6 cups strawberries
2 1/2 cups sugar
Wash and hull berries. Leave whole. Add sugar and let stand 2 hours. Drain. Bring juice to boil and boil 10 minutes. Add berries and cook, uncovered, 15 minutes. Pour into hot, sterilized jars, cool slightly, then pour on a layer of melted paraffin wax and leave until hardened. Add a second layer of melted wax, rotating the jar so that the wax will adhere to the side of the glass to form a close seal. Yield: 4 1/4 cups.

FARMER INCOME AT NEW HIGH

Net income of Canadian farmers from farming operations in 1948 reached a total of $1,693,315,000, the highest figure recorded since 1938, according to figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The previous high total was $1,234,909,000 in 1947. Farm cash incomes from the sale of farm products also established an all-time high record of $2,449,865,000 last year, and there were further increases in the value of home-consumed farm produce. The decrease in the value of farm-held livestock at the end of the year more than offset some increase in the value of farm-held grain. However, the decrease was insufficient to offset the gains in cash income and income in kind, and the gross income for 1948 also set a record.

ALWAYS A BEST SELLER

Throughout the world special celebrations will be held on Sunday to mark the fourth centenary of English Book of Common Prayer. Since it was first used on Whit Sunday 1549 it has become the foundation of the liturgy used by churches in all quarters of the globe. It has been translated into no less than 149 different languages.

Coloured Officer Wins His Battle

Wesley Anthony Brown is just another of the thousands who have gone through Annapolis Naval Academy to become ensigns.

Taut under the lash of discipline, he went through that first year of "Tuck in that chin, plebe," on to the fourth year. Now he can sing, with the rest of the fourth-year men, "Four years together by the tide, where Severn joins the bay . . ."

He can claim no special scholastic glory. He stands about midway in his class of 792. He didn't even make a touchdown against Army or swamp the service rivals in tennis.

But Wesley Anthony Brown has one distinction. He is the first Negro ever to be graduated from Annapolis.

There have been men of his race who have tried the course before, some of them perhaps better qualified than Brown. But none has ever made the steep four-year grade. Hazing and ostracism and a dozen other things the Navy records will never admit kept some of those others from graduation. Now Brown has made it.

It would be gratifying if he were someone so outstanding that even ancient racial bigotry couldn't stand against him. If he were, like Levi Jackson at Yale, an outstanding athlete, a top-notch student, the very crackling of racial barriers would be pleasant to watch. But somehow it's even better this way. Wesley Anthony Brown, by his own description is "just an average Joe." His winning through to honor comes in a special way an accolade for the Negro as human being, not just as special genius.—St. Louis Star-Times.

Nations' Navies Unite For Action

British, French, Belgian and Dutch fleets are joining forces in July for manoeuvres. More than 100 warships ranging from aircraft carriers and battleships to motor torpedo boats, will assemble off the coast of Britain. When the exercises are in full swing about 22,000 seamen will be posted at action stations. These will be the first Western Union naval manoeuvres to be held.

"Doctor G. W. Rapp, Professor of Biochemistry at Loyola University Dental School, Chicago, announced that a toothpaste containing chlorophyll does away with the conditions that lead to dental decay. He said the toothpaste, green in color, proved to have a greater ability than any other known material to lower the acid count of the mouth and to prevent the formation of bacterial acids that attack the tooth surfaces. The toothpaste has been on the market since April, 1948."

Rosemary Thomas, of Sidney, won the strawberry picking championship of Skagit County, Washington. She rummaged through the rows to the tune of 73 lbs. in 90 minutes. That would have been worth $2 an hour at regular picking pay but it brought her $100 first prize. Sixteen growers entered their best pickers in the contest.

The Anglican Junior Auxiliary held its last meeting of this season Wednesday, June 22, at the home of Mrs. W. Skinner, First St. After a short business session the girls enjoyed a picnic tea on the beach, with games following.

This summer and early fall will be devoted purely to training players and Hadley hopes anyone willing to coach or assist with coaching will drop over to the park on Sunday.

The formation of the team is the first step in an attempt to revive the old Sidney Athletic Club.

When the baseball season ends it is hoped to form a soccer team.

"What we're seeking right now," Hadley told The Review, "are lads who want to play ball. It doesn't matter if they've had no experience. If they want to play ball we'll make ball players out of them."

Sidney's baseball team has had two practices to date and according to Bob Hadley the lads are showing lots of promise. More than 15 players ranging in age from 14 to 18 have turned out and from now on workouts will be held at 9.30 every Sunday morning at the Memorial Park.

So far Vern Jacobson has shown promise as a catcher while Tom Cormack looks good on first sack and Ronnie Pearson at short.

The team will not be playing in any league this season but a few exhibition games are being planned. It is hoped to put the team in the Junior Harball League next year.

Manila Student Visits Aunt Here

Jane Walker of Manila, a niece of Mrs. Frank Godfrey and at present a student at Shawinigan Lake, was a visitor in Sidney this week.

Miss Walker's mother and father are still in Manila where the family were prisoners of the Japanese during the war.

She originally planned going home for her summer holidays but the family decided it would be better if she spent them touring the United States and visiting friends.

Mrs. Godfrey, her aunt, is still a patient at Resthaven.

MORE ABOUT COLONIAL MONTH

of their lands. Money could do nothing, however, unless peace and order were assured. "Progress depends," he continued, "upon a true sense of partnership between all sections of society—rulers and ruled alike, each giving of their best to the Commonwealth, and I look confidently to the traditional rulers and chiefs and also to the political leaders and representative bodies to promote co-operation in their various spheres and to set their faces against faction and the sowing of distrust."

The principal feature of the London displays is an exhibition "Focus on Colonial Progress" staged by The Central Office of Information. This gives a small cross-section of the life of the peoples in two million square miles of Colonial territories stretching to the East and West Hemispheres and to the Antarctic. The entrance to the exhibition is through a jungle clearing complete with mahogany trees, orchids blooming in sweltering heat and chattering monkeys. The passer-by can thus leave busy Oxford Street and find himself in the genuine atmosphere of the African jungle. Immersion heaters in hidden water tanks keep temperature and humidity at jungle levels.

There is a section showing examples of the craftsmanship of Colonial peoples. On display are articles of silverware from Hong Kong and Malaya, pottery from Cyprus, wood-carvings from Jamaica and paintings from the Gold Coast.

One section is devoted to enemies of Colonial progress. Here the menaces of climate—extremes of rainfall and heat—the tsetse fly, the anopheles mosquito (carrier of malaria), live locusts, impure water, erosion and malnutrition are all graphically illustrated. In addition three films dealing with particular aspects of these barriers to Colonial progress are attracting visitors.

Another section deals with the primitive art which has inspired so many famous western painters and sculptors and also the fine traditions of highly cultivated art dating back to the earliest civilizations.

The groundnuts scheme figures in the exhibition. This vast Colonial enterprise which is doing so much to clear the bush and turn thousands of acres of uncultivated land into good farming terrain is already producing 25 products from the humble groundnut, ranging from dynamite to industrial alcohol.

Another exhibition opened on June 21 at the Royal United Services Institution in Whitehall, which depicts the association between the Colonies and the fighting forces.

Altogether about 100 organizations are taking part in Colonial Month.
